Introducing the Practitioner Mentor for Youth, a programme designed for youth workers, mentors and volunteers to help maximize the impact of your work.

Mentoring young people in the community brings its own problems. Apart from the often ad-hoc nature of sessions, there are the risks involved with mentors facing a wide range of complex needs. This can include drug or alcohol problems, mental health difficulties, offending, home or academic issues to name but a few.

Multi-award-winning training providers, The Mentoring School, have developed a programme to help you to actively support and develop the people you are working with.

The specialist programme covers up to date good practice skills in working with individuals or groups, covering the practical skills required to be able to manage safe, bounded mentoring conversations with young people in the community.
